

ANTWERP STILL HOLDING
AGAINST GERMAN SIEGEBOMBARDMENT OF BELGIAN
CITY CONTINUES TODAY
WITH CATHEDRAL UN-DER HEAVY FIRE.

KING ALBERT LEAVES

Temporary Capital Is Now Located At Ostend—Events Leading Up to Attack Are Revealed by Correspondent.The German heavy artillery is sounding Antwerp, the last remaining stronghold of the Belgian army, while German armies to the west continue their struggles with the French and British allies.Beyond this little is known of today's developments in Belgium and France. The situation at Antwerp is in doubt. The censorship which has asked the fighting there until the Belgian government was compelled to withdraw to Ostend, is now veiling
the attack on the city proper. Reports coming through London refer only to events of yesterday morning or earlier.King Albert is reported as leading a part of the Belgian army out of the city with the intention probably of effecting a junction with the British and French, and as having arrived at Salszaete, a village on the Dutch frontier. Refugees from Antwerp continue to pour into Holland. They report that the German guns already have done much damage in the city.
The bombardment of Antwerp's inner forts are said to have begun at 12:30 o'clock Thursday morning. Two of these forts are reported to have been silenced and fire is said to have started in four parts of the city. The most recent statement by the German war office says that the Germans had crossed the flooded area along the river Meuse and continues to make progress.The general situation in the west has undergone no change, says a French official announcement at three o'clock this afternoon. The battle continues along the line of Arras, Bray-sur-Somme, Chaumes, Roye and La-Fere. An artillery duel is occurring in the Woevre district. Otherwise nothing of importance on the right or center of the allies is reported by the French.The Paris correspondent says that the Montenegrin troops continue their advance on Sarajevo.The Austrian war office in its most recent communication reported success against the Montenegrins, and a decisive blow against the Serbian invaders of Bosnia at Visegrad.The Austrian army headquarters also reported the capture of Przemyśl, and the repulse of the Russians who are marching on Przemyśl in Galicia.

Cathedral Shelled.
London, Oct. 9.—In a dispatch from Ostend Thursday, the correspondent of the Star makes the following statement:An officer whom I met stated that the bombardment of the cathedral of Antwerp had begun at the hour he left the city, which was at ten o'clock
Thursday morning.During the bombardment of Antwerp Thursday night it is estimated that shells fell at the rate of twenty a minute. In addition to the law courts and the museum, which were damaged by shells, fire broke out at many points in the city.The correspondent of the Post at Antwerp in describing the event leading up to the present situation at Antwerp, says:

Events Before Attack.

"About a month ago the German commander began to realize the danger of having the Belgian army occupying a fortified position, which continually threatened the German line of communication. The Germans knew out feelers to ascertain if Bel-gium would agree to keep her army in Antwerp in return for the German promise not to attack the town.
"Belgium rejected all such proposals and replied by gallant sorties which, however, failed of complete success. The taking of Alost renewed the German conviction of the necessity for an aggressive campaign against the Belgians, which began after further German proposals for an agreement were rejected by the Belgians.
"Accordingly the Germans brought up some of their heaviest field pieces and opened with the bombardment of Antwerp for a week afterwards. The Germans each day bombarded some open town outside of Antwerp with the idea that the fleeing civilian population from these villages would wreck the morale of the Antwerp garrison.

Progress If Sieged.

"On Tuesday Forts Woevre and St.
Catherine were put out of action.
Later on the same day Fort Welhel-
m was damaged and became ineffective.
Whatever the German shells struck they destroyed. On Thursday Zeppelins attacked Antwerp. The Germans shelled Alost and Liege, sending the Belgian population fleeing in a panic to Antwerp. By this time at least 50,000 refugees were in Antwerp."Thursday evening the German infantry attacked Liege. Duffel and Ternonville, only the Duffel attack being successful. Up to this state, confidence had been general, but it now began to waver. Friday the bombardment of Liege continued and the anticipated German attack on the city threatened to consider the possibility of Antwerp being occupied by the enemy.

Liege Heavily Shelled.

On Saturday the situation showed slight advance by the Belgians.
On Sunday the German attack seemed to be slackening in its intensity.
On Monday the German artillery made a furious attack on Liege and the city council urged the governor to continue the defense of the city without regard to property interests."On Tuesday there were further attacks on Liege and at one point the Germans got a handful of men across the river, swimming, but they only came over to be killed. The German artillery attack was rather diffused and the position was cheerful at nightfall, though savage fighting continues at Liege."

King Albert Leaves.

So far as England knows this morning, Antwerp, the latest of the cities of Belgium to be beleaguered, is still holding out against the German onslaught. King Albert has withdrawn from the city toward Ostend, where the administration is now fully established, but approximately 1/2 of the Belgian field army has remained to resist as long as possible the fire of the great German guns, horrible effects of which were made plain at Liege.The nations opposing Germany hoped that the defenders could hold out until the allies delivered some decisive blow along the battle line in France, which has now almost reached the North sea and taken in conjunction with the fighting which extends across the Belgian frontier to the northward of Lille, makes a gigantic front sprawling like a snake half across Belgium and across practically all northeastern France.Though separate conflicts, the sieges
of Antwerp and the battle of Alsace are thus becoming more and more closely related, and both the Germans and the allies are making the most desperate efforts to crush the other and smash through the ever-lengthening western wall.It is contended that the Germans failed in their great efforts to drive a wedge through this great region and the latest Paris communication contends that the situation is stationary,
though the most violent fighting continues.

Antwerp Well Fortified.

If Antwerp falls, it will prove the effectiveness of modern fortification against modern guns, for Antwerp is the last word in ingenious barriers.The bombardment of Antwerp has been terrible, says an Ostend dispatch to the Reuter Telegram company, under date of Thursday."The Germans threw incendiary bombs," the dispatch adds, "with the result that many parts of the town between the railway station and the south and the palace of justice are in flames.""It is rumored here that the Germans have been repulsed on the left bank of the river Meuse.""A Taube aeroplane flew over Ostend at 7 o'clock this afternoon."
"Borgerhout, a suburb of Antwerp,
is burning, according to a dispatch from Antwerp to the Reuter Telegram
company."RUSSIANS CAPTURE
TEN THOUSAND MENPetrograd Claims Signal Success on East Prussian Frontier—Other
Reports From East.[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Paris, Oct. 9.—In the recent battle along the east Prussian frontier, the Russians took ten thousand prisoners and forty cannon, according to a dispatch from Petrograd to the Havas News Agency.

Repulse Przemyśl Attack.

Vienna, Oct. 9, via Amsterdam and London, Oct. 9.—The following official announcement signed by General Hoeser, deputy chief of the general staff, was given out at Vienna today:
"Our troops have made further advances and yesterday they repulsed
the enemy on the road to Przemyśl, near Barycz, west of Dynow. Przemyśl has been recaptured. In the territory between the river Viatula and the river San we took many prisoners from the fleeing Russians.""The renewed violent attacks on Przemyśl have been splendidly repulsed and the enemy's dead and wounded were counted by the thousands."
"We have had victorious battles at Sziget in Marmora county, Hungary, and in east Galicia. The Landsturm and the Polish Legionaries rival each other gallantly."

Prussian Border Situation.

To the east the situation on the east Prussian frontier is becoming more like that in France after the German invasion and retreat. Being driven from Poland, the Germans are making a stubborn stand and with reinforcements from Königsburg will doubtless give a battle which will determine whether the Germans will again invade Russia in this region.
"Roundabout dispatches reaching London from Petrograd say that a new Russian army has arrived at the frontier near Posen, while another is marching toward Thorn. All reports of the surrender of Przemyśl appear to be premature as were various reports of the beginning of a battle at Cracow."PRISONERS IN FIGHT

—Sherriff Saves the Irishman.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Sheboygan, Oct. 9.—Undersheriff Hugo Fesing prevented a murder in the corridor of the Sheboygan jail, between an Irishman and two Greeks.
The prisoners got into a discussion
over the European war, and according to the other prisoners the Irishman Thomas Benton, took exception to the statement made by one of the Greeks
that the Germans would soon be driving bombs in London, Glasgow and Dublin, and knocked him down, grabbing him by the throat and was kicking him when the second Greek seized a club and hit the Irishman on the head. Then both Greeks jumped on him while he was down.The undersheriff heard the commotion and rushed into the corridor and after a tussle pulled the Greeks off
the prostrate Irishman.

RUSH TO CHANGE NAMES

IS NOTICED IN LONDON

London, Oct. 9.—A German or Ger-sondung name tends to make its possessor so unpopular both in a business and a social way in London that there has been a rush of British-born and naturalized German citizens in England to the courts for new names.
Some of the changes on the court records are: Schloss to Castle;
Schwartz to Black; Klussman to Maclaren; Rosen to Rose; Howland to Howard; Koenig to Kingsley; Dunkelbuehler to Duncan; Scharlieb to Shirley; Weischenek to Wynne; Kuss to Cuss; Brueggemeyer to Bridges, and Stohwasser to Stowasser.But the most tactful shift was by the man who traded Kaiser for King.

election. Mr. Blaine is here today perfecting his political organization.

FIRE PREVENTION DAY

OBSERVED IN INDIANA

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 9.—A proclamation issued by Governor Ralston, is observing today as Fire Prevention Day.
Different methods of observing the day are being followed throughout the state but they all take up means of preventing fires.In many of the schools of the city patriotic exercises were to be held.
The fire chief and several prominent citizens were expected to address the children on precautions that should be taken against fires. The state fire marshal's office took a prominent part in arranging the exercises throughout the city and different towns of the state.Two years ago, at the suggestion of the Indiana Police Trade association, Indiana citizens first observed Fire Prevention Day. Many other states were quick to take up the plan.
Gov. Ralston, in his proclamation, urged the citizens to inspect furnaces and flues today. This, he said, would be the means of preventing many blazes.

GERMAN BATTERY CAUGHT

IN SWAMP FOUGHT BRAVELY

Rome, Oct. 9.—An incident of the battle between the French and Germans near Esternay and Sezanna is thus described in a Paris dispatch to the Corriere della Sera:"A German battery which had been caught in a swamp, and which for this reason had been cut off from the main force, managed finally to free itself from the mud. Instead of surrendering it continued single handed to fight against the advancing French. The German artillerymen beat their assails
with a hellish fire, which the French artillery tried in vain to silence. Until late in the evening the battery continued its deadly work until its ammunition became exhausted and the men were either dead or wounded. The bodies of the brave crew had already been buried, and the guns were still placed on trees which the men had rested under the wheels
in order that the pieces might not disappear in the mud."CONGRESS ADJOURNS

the White House today was that he was opposed to the plan agreed on last night, at a meeting of southern members of congress for a bill to have the federal government loan 250,000 through banks to cotton plant-

SITUATION UNCHANGED

Battle Line Extends Northward Toward North Sea Carrying Storm Center Toward Europe.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Paris, Oct. 9, 3:06 p. m.—The following official announcement was given out in Paris this afternoon:"The general situation has undergone no change."
"On our left wing the two opposing bodies of cavalry are still operating to the north of Lille and La Bassée
and the battle continues along the line marked by the ridge of the Aras, Bray-sur-Somme, Chaumes, Roye and Lassigny.""On the center of the Oise and on the Meuse, only action of minor importance has been reported. The lines extend northward."
London, Oct. 9.—The military fortunes of General Von Kluck and his one-armed adversary commanding the allies' reserve are being rapidly made known within sight of the North Sea, which is the extreme limit of the flanking movement, the accomplishment of which for so long has been the supreme goal of the rival generals.The storm center gradually has extended northward. The battle of the Aisne already has been merged into the battle of the Lys and if the long left flank of the allies continues to stretch out in its present direction
the final battle of the titanic struggle
may be fought on the bank of the Scheldt, where the fate of the beleaguered fortress of Antwerp.The reports that the useful Grand Duchess of Luxembourg is a prisoner of the Germans is reiterated today though official confirmation is lacking. The grand duchess is now declared to be incarcerated at Nuernberg, Bavaria.The renewal of hints from Washington that the country by the allies on the basis of a drawn war again is under discussion.

Fighting Near Arras.

The Times' Boulogne correspondent,
who has been on the scene, relates some phases of the fighting of the French left wing. The battle of Arras began on October 1, and all around was an unceasing hail of shells and shrapnel, violent destruction and death.When I left Arras the enemy's shells were bursting within three kilometers of the town," said the correspondent. "I suggested that shells fell in the town and three streets were set on fire. The enemy did not enter Arras; they swept around it. They touched a line between Arras and St.
Pol, seeking to effect a junction with the Bethune force.""They came into contact with strong French re-inforcements and were driven back to the south. In the north they retired to La Bassée with their right wing retreating on Lille. The tide of battle has been stemmed—perhaps has turned in favor of the allies."

Paris Still Confident.

Paris, Oct. 9.—The suggestion in Paris this morning is that the Germans are holding out with the idea of taking Antwerp first and then returning to a line of defense prepared in Belgium as it is not possible for them to find re-inforcements to counterbalance the French troops constantly coming to strengthen the allies. The transfer of the seat of the government from Antwerp to Ostend was not made known in Paris until

CITY MAY ABANDON STREET EXTENSION ON JURY'S VERDICT

Mayor Fathers Declares "Project Not Worth The Price" of Jury's Decision of Six Hundred Dollars.

It is possible that the city council will abandon the proposed extension of South Third street from Forest Park boulevard to Ringold street as a result of the verdict given by the jury yesterday in the condemnation proceedings in Judge Pfister's court. The jury placed a valuation of $300 on the land which would be taken from the Kreuger property and assessed $300 in damages. The benefits were assessed at $100, making the price the city would have to pay $600.

Mayor Fathers stated emphatically this morning that "the project was not worth the price and that the jury was not unreasonable." If the extension is not given up altogether the case will be appealed according to the city officials. The ground for appeal, it was stated, would be that testimony relative to walks and curb improvements, entirely proper, was necessary to purchase the strip from the Kreuger estate. It is declared by the officials that the land could have been bought for less than two hundred dollars by private contract.

The city has the right to abandon the project or appeal the case, but no definite line of action has been decided, owing to the absence of City Attorney W. H. Dougherty. The matter will probably be brought before the council meeting tonight.

The jury in the case was composed as follows: W. O. Newhouse, A. W. Hall, H. J. Cunningham, George Hanthorn, Henry Kayler, Albert Schaller, A. C. Thorpe, W. H. Blair, William Zull, George D. Turk, W. B. Conrad.

U. S. MARINE BAND DELIGHT AUDIENCES

A Number From Janesville Heard Concert Program at Beloit Thursday Evening.

A goodly number of Janesville people were present last evening at the concert given by the United States Marine Band at the First Congregational church, Beloit, under the auspices of the Treble Clef, the leading musical society of the Line City.

The program, consisting of familiar classical selections, was executed with wonderful finesse inspiring delight and admiration. Mr. Whitcomb, cornetist, scored a triumph in his rendition of a difficult number and Mr. Seel, flute soloist, proved to be an artist in musical expression.

For volume, quality of tone, and expression the White House musicians are the equal of any band organization which has played in Beloit or Janesville. Last evening's program follows:

- 1—Richard Wagner—Overture "Tannhauser"
- 2—(a) R. Drigo—Serenade "Les Millions d'Arlequin" (b) Max Baer—Waltz "The Intermexzo" to "The Jewels of the Madonna"
- 3—A. P. Weldon—Cornet solo, "Grenadian Polka"
- 4—Franz Liszt—Hungarian Rhapsody "No. 14"

Among those who attended from Janesville were the Misses Ada and Etta Pond, Katherine Filold, Elmer, Grace and Mary Mount, Louise Merrill, Mae Hayes, Maude Garson, Miss Ludlow, and Mesdames May Rogan, James Moun, William Sherer, Mary Merrill, Martha Wolff.

PLANT WILD RICE SEED FOR DUCKS

Hundred Pounds Planted in River and Small Ponds in County by Rod and Gun Club Officers.

One hundred pounds of wild rice seed was planted recently by members of the Rod and Gun club in the river and small ponds in the county during the past week, to furnish natural feed for wild ducks and other aquatic fowl. F. H. Green, president of the club, purchased the seed on his own initiative and was assisted in the planting by Charles Butler and Robert Bear.

The seed procured is of excellent quality, already in the stage of sprouting, and promises to increase greatly the feeding ground of the wild fowl in Rock county. The seed is very expensive, costing twenty cents per pound, but it is the club's plan to plant more during the month, providing the members see fit to take this means of improving the hunting in the county.

All of the hundred pounds was spread in the ponds and the river in the small bags it is planted in three or four feet of water on muddy bottom where it is certain to grow the coming spring.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle.

Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective.

They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

EVEN CROSS, SICK CHILDREN LOVE SYRUP OF FIGS

If feverish, bilious, constipated, give fruit laxative at once.

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, Mother! A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeiters sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig-syrup.

ADDED INTEREST IN GAMES WITH OPENING OF WORLD SERIES

Athletics Meet Braves at Home Ground in Opening Game of Title Tilt—Chicago Teams Even.

With the Chicago teams "even-up," and the first world series game opening at Philadelphia between the Athletics and the Braves today increased interest is being manifested in the outcome of the games in this city. The majority of the fans are favoring the White Sox in the series battle with the Cubs and there were visible signs of joy reigning before the scoreboard when the Americans posted out a victory against the Bruins yesterday.

In the world series, the Janesville baseball men are pulling for a Brave victory, hoping against odds that Stallings' fighting crew will defeat the Philadelphia machine, perfected by Connie Mack. Only a small amount of betting has been done the greatest amount of which has been waged on the Chicago series. Odds varying from 3 to 2 and 2 to 1 are demanded of the world series and there has not in many who care to take the Boston side of the bet because of the prowess of the Mackmen and the how handed to the Braves by the injury to Smith.

One thing that commands the admiration of all baseball followers is the spirit that the Braves have displayed in beating the Giants from a record run from the cellar to the pennant rung of the National league. Both managers issued statements this morning showing the confidence of the nines to win the world's honors. They are as follows:

By Connie Mack. Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 9.—It is bad custom to do any predicting in baseball. I have never done that and am not going to start. There is one thing to say, though, any ball team such as Stallings has, that can skip from the lower regions of the percentage column to the head of the procession must be of some account. You hear a great deal of talk about the coming series and how my club is going to clean up the Braves and that the series will not go over five games. That may go for some of the boys who follow the pastime very close, but not for players and managers who are in the battle every day and know the uncertainty of the game.

George Stallings. Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—Figures and dope amount to as much in a seven-game series as the form of a major league club does against a minor league in the spring. I have seen a big league beaten four times in succession by bush teams when the bushers were in no better condition than the big leaguers. My explanation of this is that the minor leaguers are eager to show the big league stars up and the big leaguers don't particularly care until it is too late. The Athletics feel very much as do these big leaguers in the spring. Any club that was three or four pennants feels that way and the players simply can't help it. I look to see my club jump on them because they are all fired up over this coming series and are supremely confident.

White Sox Victory. The Chicago Americans won yesterday's game by a heroic rush in the last two innings, overcoming an early lead by the Cubs, batting out four runs in the eighth and ninth innings, swamping O'Day's nine. "Death Valley" Jim Scotty hurled his best game of the year against the Cubs, holding them to four hits, two of which were scratch, but nevertheless they counted the Cubs' two tallies.

The Sox deserved to win the game early in the siege, only losing their chance to score when a splendid opening was offered in the second, when two batters, Blackburne and Collins, were unable to score runners that packed the sacks.

The only successful attack made by the Cubs was in the last half of the second when Schulte poled a two-base drive for a starter, and scored on a fluke single by Breton. Leach scored Sweeney on a hit through Scott.

The Sox labored for the tying run until the eighth, when Roth singled and stole second. Schak poled a low fly which eluded Leach and Roth's scored.

With the score tied the Sox staged a big fuss in the ninth when, with two down, a misplay by Cheney put two on the scoring sacks, third and second. Zimmerman hooted a ground-or allowing one to score. Cheney let a wild pitch and then Fournier broke up the game with a double, ending two home.

Cheney was unsteady all the route and when the strain came the great est he weakened, for the Sox wailed him for thirteen hits.

BATTILING LEVINSKY MEETS SMITH TONIGHT

New York, Oct. 9.—New York fight fans get their first real treat of the winter tonight when Battling Levinsky, Dan Morgan's busy biffer, clashes with Gunboat Smith, white hope ex-terminator. The heavyweights are booked for a ten round session before the Manhattan Sporting club.

Smith, although he has met defeat at the hands of Carnahan, the French champion, now fighting with France's army, is still regarded as America's best white heavyweight. As Levinsky always makes a great showing the fans are expecting a lively set-to tonight.

Sport Snap Shots

The performances of the Braves this season has been so spectacular as to be almost unbelievable and it is doubtful if there has ever been a team before to come to the top under such discouraging circumstances. For years they had been second division dawdlers in the National league and were commonly regarded as about a hopeless bunch of ball talent as could be found. They started the present season in their usual manner, losing game after game, and gave every promise of ending the season just as they had done so many times before. In their first twenty-one games this season they won just four. Had any one at the time suggested that they would win the pennant he would have been most raucously hooted.

The team was the big laugh of the league and every one associated with it was despondent indeed. Gaffney was ready to sell out at a very reasonable figure. Stallings desperately tried all the switching around that he could contrive and finally let up on a combination that seemed to show promise. The "Miracle Man" had somehow put the pep into his bunch and miraculously inspired them with the idea that they could play pretty decent ball after all. They started a climb and soon were being mentioned by all the opposition in awed whispers. In three months they came from the most nether position in the league to the top of the heap, pushed all before them as they came. At no time did their wonderful winning spirit lag. They had something on every one and they knew it.

The Braves are going at the Athletics with this same spirit behind them. They are facing the greatest bevy of ball talent the game has seen for generations and they are as certain they will win as they were when they were climbing to the top of the National league. There is not an overconfidence that will bring carelessness and the playing. They are simply sure they will win and they are equally sure that they cannot be beaten.

It is quite true that the Athletics have the favor of all the dope in this matter. The figures show that they have more hitters, more spectacular fielders and far and away more men with reputations. Also, all their players are veteran world's series performers. All of this the Athletics are banking against the winning spirit of the Braves. The Braves are banking their chances on their winning spirit, their harmonious team work and their stubborn unbeatableness. It will be an interesting battle.

Bender and James will probably oppose each other in the opening battle. Bender is a skilled vet with everything in his favor and James is a youngster, new at the big performances and likely to be nervous. But he has all the confidence that has won for the Braves. James has a fast curve that is as good as anything the Chief can offer and he has a slow ball that has amazed National league batters exceedingly. He has always been cool in the tight places and time and again he has been touched up for as many as eight hits and yet come forth with the bay leaves.

In the second game Rudolph will probably work for the Braves against Eddie Plank. Here Rudolph in the dope has a shade on his opponent. He is one of the smallest pitchers in the game and one of the best. If Tyler opposes Bush the chances are about even. McGraw has regarded Tyler as one of the best southpaws in the game. It has been seen what Bush can do and he has a slow ball that is a wonder.

The dope has shown time and again that in mechanical playing ability the Athletics have the buge on their adversaries. Once more it might be said that the confidence and harmonious pep of the Braves is their greatest asset.

HIGHS PLAY BELOIT IROQUOIS TOMORROW; GRANDSTAND IN USE

Junior Squad From Line City to Be Locals' First Opponents of Season at the Driving Park at Three O'clock.

Janesville high school football eleven opens its season tomorrow afternoon in this city at the fair grounds, when they clash with the Beloit Junior Iroquois aggregation, considered one of the fastest amateur gridiron teams in this section of the state. They hold the honor of having held the Beloit high school eleven to a 0 to 0 score a few days ago.

Janesville expects a hard battle. Coach Curtis refuses to state on the probable outcome of this team's chances in trimming the Beloiters. The game will hinge on the blue and white's chances in upsetting Beloit high school and other contestants which they will meet this season.

Field is Ideal. The field has been taken care of in a most complete manner. The agricultural students took several hours the other day to survey the lot, so as to have a regulation field that is exact in its measurements. Then the manual training boys were called upon to erect the goal posts and line out the field. An ideal field of play has been rounded out through the efforts of the students.

To Use Grandstand. There will be no scampering up and down the sidelines, as has been the case in years past. Organized football will be played, and the crowds will be handled in an organized manner, rather than allowing the small town stuff that has been practiced in the past. The players and officials will be the only men allowed on the field of play during battle while every rooter will be planted in the grandstand to witness the game. This rule will be followed from now on was the statement of Coach Curtis today.

Season Tickets. Season tickets have been printed and can be purchased at the high school or from Coach Curtis. Students will be no exception.

HE'S BACKSTOP FOR THE BOSTON BRAVES

Team is Confident. Realizing that he has too much excess heat on his team, which tends to slow up the plays and players, Curtis has been trying to shift the men where they will work to the best advantage, for the first game at least. Capt. Stewart will play at quarter back.

On the Safe Side. Seed Merchant (giving information) —"I should say a foot between the radish and onion rows will be quite sufficient." Prospective Amateur Gardener—"Think so? I think I'll be on the safe side and allow three or four feet. I don't want the radishes to have a beastly onion flavor."—New York Advertiser.

British Wool Importations. Wool to the estimated value of $100,000,000 arrives annually in the port of London, about a third of which passes through the authorities' warehouses, while rubber of various qualities worth between $300,000 and $350,000 is placed on the show floors and in the sheds every three or four days and dealt with.

HUSBAND TO CONTEST LAURA JOHNSON WILL

GEORGE JOHNSON WOULD ANNUL DOCUMENT DISPOSING OF WIFE'S PROPERTY.

OTHER CASES PENDING

Heirs of James Nelson of Evansville File Contest—Oral Objection to Gustavus Hilton Will.

George Johnson has filed a protest in the county court against the will of his wife, Laura C. Johnson, by which she disposed of her property which includes certain real estate and mortgages on Janesville land. According to the will which was on the calendar to be probated at the present time of court, the principal beneficiaries are: Mrs. Johnson's mother, Sarah E. Lord, her father, Gilbert Lord, her husband, George Johnson, and Peter L. Myers.

The contest filed by the husband alleges that the instrument was not executed lawfully, that it was procured through the exercise of undue influence and that the "said deceased" was of unsound mind and not possessed of mental capacity to make a will.

No date has been fixed for the hearing which will probably be held some time during October.

Two other contests have been filed to wills which are now before the county court. Heirs of Gustavus Hilton of the town of Janesville made oral protest to Judge Fifield on the October term to the will by which the property was left to the wife of the deceased. They were given until Monday, October 12, in which to file formal contest.

Heirs of James Nelson, who died at his home near Evansville, some two months ago, have filed protest to his will on the grounds that he was incompetent at the time that the document was executed nearly two years ago. It is cited in the notice of contest, that soon after the document was drawn up, the deceased was declared incompetent by the county judge and that a guardian was appointed to look after his affairs. The hearing will be held on October 22.

NIGHTINGALE IN CAPTIVITY.

PURCHASES STOVE AT DOUBLE PRICE

Mrs. A. Bartel, Who Resides Near Leyden, Closes Agreement Which She Could Not Read.

Mrs. A. Bartel, wife of A. Bartel, a German farmer residing half a mile south of the town of Leyden, and being unable to read English, signed an agreement with a representative of a prominent stove concern the other day, in which she not knowingly agreed to pay double the price of what the stove is alleged to actually cost.

The price of the stove, it is alleged, was given by the salesman at $37.75 at which price Mrs. Bartel agreed to take it, which called for two payments, the first to be made at the end of six months, and the second at the end of the first year, each payment to amount to the alleged original cost of the stove.

Mrs. Bartel's children, upon returning from school, read the articles of the agreement, and informed their mother of the trickery played on her by the representative. The matter has been placed in a lawyer's hands for settlement, and there may be others who have been attracted by the proposition of the salesman, and who should take warning.

HANOVER TO RAISE A RED CROSS FUND

Pastor of Lutheran Church Makes Announcement—Will Also Aid Christmas Ship Plan.

[Special to the Gazette]

Hanover, Oct. 9.—An effort is being made at this place to raise a Red Cross fund to be sent to Europe and also a fund for the Christmas ship.

The Rev. Felton of the Lutheran church makes the following announcement in regard to the plan:

"Believing that many people of the community are not only willing, but also desirous of helping to alleviate the sufferings of the hundreds of thousands of nations of this most cruel war, I utilize this opportunity to announce that both of our churches have identified their willingness to receive any contributions toward a war relief fund. We live in peace and plenty at home, but the war is not the soldiers who fall in battle, but the poor widows and orphans. We can and ought to do something toward their relief. Your sympathy is with any special country, you may designate that in the lists. All monies will be turned over to the American Red Cross fund. If you are enthusiastic over this Christmas ship idea and wish to contribute money or goods toward that end, ring 452 on Orfordville phone and all questions will be cheerfully answered."

Road Maintenance and Repair For Rural District Residents

There is no phase of road problem more important than that of maintenance, says the agricultural department weekly news letter. The general maintenance of roads is of such importance that it is not surprising that types of roads that are permanent are rare. No permanent road has ever been constructed or ever will be, according to the road specialists of the department. The only things about a road that may be considered permanent are the grading, culverts and bridges. Roads constructed by the most skillful highway engineers will soon be destroyed by the traffic, frost, rain, and wind, unless they are properly maintained. But the life of these roads may be prolonged by systematic maintenance. Proper road maintenance may be improved by proper maintenance, but may become better in time than a good road without it.

The first and last commandment in earth road maintenance is to keep the road well drained. To insure good drainage the ditches should be kept open, all obstructions removed, and a smooth crown maintained. Except for very stony soil the road machine will not only be improved by proper maintenance, but may become better in time than a good road without it.

All vegetable matter, such as sods and weeds, should be kept out of the road, as they make a spongy surface which will not support the weight of a vehicle. A split-log drag or some similar device is very useful in maintaining the surface after suitable ditches and cross section have been secured. The drag can also be used to advantage on gravel road as well as on an earth road. The principle involved in dragging is that clays and most heavy soils will puddle when wet and set very hard when dry. The little attention that the earth road needs must be given promptly and at the proper time if the best results are to be obtained.

In dragging roads only a small amount of earth is moved, just enough to fill the ruts and depressions with a thin layer of plastic clay or earth which packs very hard so that the next rain instead of finding ruts, depressions and holes in which to collect runs off, leaving the surface but little affected.

The drag should be light and should be drawn over the road at an angle of about 45 degrees. The driver should ride on the drag and should not drive faster than a walk. One round trip, each trip straddling a wheel track, is usually sufficient to fill the ruts and smooth the surface. If necessary, the road should be dragged after every bad spell of weather, when the soil is in proper condition to puddle well and still not adhere to the drag. If the road is very bad, it may be dragged when very wet and when it is begins to dry out. A few trips over the road will give the operator an idea as to the best time to drag. Drag at all seasons, but do not drag a dry road. The split-log crown of an earth road should be about one inch to the foot. If the crown becomes too high it may be reduced by dragging toward the ditch instead of from it. If the drag is too much, the operator should change your position on the drag. If it is necessary to protect the face of the drag with a strip of iron, it should be placed flush with the edge of the drag and not projecting. A cutting edge should be avoided, as the main object in dragging is to smear the damp soil into position.

Garden and Agriculture Department.

Question: Dear sir, I have some alfalfa standing at least a foot high. Shall I cut the fourth crop from it? I have already had three this season. Or shall I pasture it? I am thinking of turning my cows in to pasture it.

Answer: It will not do to cut alfalfa now. It should be at least a foot high when winter sets in and if cut now it would be likely to make much growth after this and would winter kill; so if you want to get crops from it next year do not cut now. A rule alfalfa should be cut after Sept. 10, in the corn belt. It is not safe, either, to turn your cows in to pasture on alfalfa. It does not stand grazing at any time of the year, and such a course would likely result in the loss of your cows, for it is quite likely to cause bloat. Experiments have shown that while alfalfa makes excellent pasture for pigs, it is not to be recommended for cattle.

Howard's Dairyman of Jan. 2, 1914, says: "Joseph E. Wing, who is a recognized authority on alfalfa, says that the manual value of three tons of hay, which is a fair crop for an acre, is worth $2.43. This he figures out by chemical analysis and the market value for the nitrogen, phosphate, potash and lime that 6,000 pounds of hay contains."

So if your alfalfa is large enough to make hay now it is by no means a waste to leave it, for it adds to the value of next year's crop. Besides the nitrogen, phosphate, etc., added to the soil there is also, humus, which in some way that scientists have not yet agreed upon adds productivity to the land. Dr. Hopkins of Illinois Agricultural college says that three tons per acre of fresh actively decaying organic matter may be more effective for a year or two than thirty tons of old and less active humus.

Question: I have a pasture that is getting pretty thin. How can I improve it without plowing it up and re-seeding? Answer: Next spring as soon as the snow goes off it would be well to sow on seed of redtop and alsike clover. It may be sown broadcast by hand. It would also be well to manure

WELLS FORESAW EVENTS OF WAR

Novelist Described Them In
"The World Set Free."

HE OUTDOES JULES VERNE.

Imaginations of Frenchman Surpassed by Scientific Novels of Brilliant English Writer—Has Solid Foundation of Knowledge For His Scanning of the Future and His Prophecies of the Workings of Social Forces and Inventive Genius—Life In All Its Phases Interests Him Enormously, He Writes In Sketch of Himself.

HERBERT GEORGE WELLS, the British novelist-prophet, foresaw with wonderful exactness some of the events of the great European war and described them in his book, "The World Set Free," published before the outbreak of the war. It is true and not quite exact to call him "the English Jules Verne," for he goes beyond the French romancer in the exact quality of his scientific imaginings. Verne foretold some of the present day inventions, such as the submarine and the aeroplane. Wells performs a more difficult task. He predicts with amazing accuracy the play of social forces as well as the progress of invention and does it all with such literary skill and air of verisimilitude that the reader is carried along as by the recital of actual events.

Herbert George Wells is one of the most modest, retiring writers of the day, which quite likely accounts for the fact that his name publicity has never got beyond that shrunken H. G. Wells. Indeed, Wells frequently does not sign his name at all to business letters, letting the stamped address on his stationery suffice.

Wells owes his career to a hemorrhage of the lungs, without which he would now probably be a professor of biology. He was born about forty-seven years ago at Bromley, Kent, in the south of England, and at an early age showed a desire for scientific study. He studied at the Royal College of Science, took the degree of B. Sc. at the University of London and for several years taught biology at the University Tutorial college in Red Lion square. He wrote a textbook on biology which attracted so much attention that it was even translated into Chinese.

Made a Writer by Illness.
It seemed that his life work was mapped out along definite lines when suddenly came a severe hemorrhage. He recognized its warning and knew that he must give up, at least for a time, his educational work and seek something entirely sedentary. He began writing articles for various London newspapers, and his work attracted the attention of H. B. Marriott Watson. Through Mr. Watson he made the acquaintance of W. E. Henley, who was glad to advise and help him toward a literary future. Soon he began to write books, achieving success in more varying directions than perhaps any other English writer. The reading public has not yet recovered from amazement at the latitude of his themes and methods and his complete mastery over each.

He is not, however, a creature of moods and shifting personalities. He is made up of many separate characters within himself, and it is the development of each of these that has combined to make the great Wells of today a master exponent of liberalism in its broadest sense. His zest is to study and analyze all the tendencies of the time, and he reveals all of them illuminatingly, crisply and tolerantly. His present personality compactly displays all those varying, individual personalities which he first, when developing and assembling his strength, displayed one by one.

Nearly twenty years ago, in his "Sea-World," he displayed an inventive talent, but the descriptive little sketches were limited and affected.

His "Scientific" Stories.
This inventive talent was shown in much more perfected degree and form in his following "scientific" stories: "The First Men In the Moon," "The Time Machine," "Dr. Moreau's Island." But there was nothing as yet creative, inspirational or imaginative in them. Wells was just a clever workman, manufacturing his stories piecemeal out of the storehouse of his special and acquired knowledge. He was undoubtedly clever at his job, much cleverer than Jules Verne had been before him, but he as yet evinced no sign of the "divine spark," the real creative gift which is based on imagination.

The first suggestion of this quality came with his "The Wonderful Visit," and later developing with his "The God of the Gods." Then in "Klippers" he showed that he could create a real, living, throbbing segment of life, genuine and significant and at the same time gentle as though cloaked by a tolerant, understanding deity.

"Tono-Bungay" and "The New Machiavelli" showed a powerful mentality in complete control of itself and of its creation, pushing forward every sort of problem, event, tangle and illusion that the age has produced. Wells with his wide knowledge, with his developed intellect, with his tolerant understanding, had climbed to a high place and looked understandingly down upon a frail world. While "The New Machiavelli" is most strikingly a political consideration of present day England and while "Tono-Bungay" prominently sends shafts of light on the methods of modern business, both of these books are great and significant and will live because of the absolute sincerity and truth with which they reveal every phase of the life they portray.

Patience Worth Cultivating.
Whoever is out of patience is out of possession of his soul. Men must not turn bees and kill themselves in stinging others.—Bacon.

When you think of Insurance think of C. P. Beers.

Wells' New Books.
His two new books are "The World Set Free," a novel embodying all his characteristic assets, and "Social Forces In Europe and America," a volume which is exactly what its title implies.

A writer for the Book News Monthly who has recently had the privilege of visiting Wells in his home describes his personal appearance and his home. He says:

Wells is a little man. He is thin, and so is his hair. His eyes are unimpressive, and his mustache is straggly. No one failing to know him would guess the presence of England's greatest writer. . . . His eyes are brown and kindly and set deeply beneath a forehead across which unruly strands of reddish brown hair persist in straying.

In its white gables and awnings in strong contrast to the century old ivy stands the rectory, a low, rambling house built in the days when George I. was king. And there, too, lying at full length upon the grass in the midst of a very chaos of toy engines, forts and leaden soldiers, was Mr. Wells, no whit less interested than were his two sons, boys of some ten and eleven years, who played beside him.

Leaving the boys to their game, Mr. Wells took me to the house and together we entered the low, cool room that is his study. Here by the open window stood his desk, and the breeze fluttered the leaves of a manuscript upon which he had been working earlier in the day. Around the walls were well stocked bookcases, with here and there a simply framed picture.

During a short walk he showed me the various things of interest about the place. A herd of gentle deer, quietly grazing beyond a boundary fence, looked up in sudden alarm at our approach. Just back of the rectory, but sheltered from view by a screen of elms, is the pond upon which Mr. Wells and his sons venture throughout long summer afternoons, their argosy a venerable punt.

His Favorite Book a Failure.
Later Mr. Wells discussed his literary work. He said that "Mr. Polly" was one of his favorites, though in England it had never been successful enough to soar beyond a two shilling edition.

He partially assented that much of his work is autobiographical: "Every novel is to some degree autobiographical, inasmuch as the author consciously or unconsciously puts into it more or less of himself. In regard to my own work, much of the early portions of 'Tono-Bungay' and of 'The New Machiavelli' may be said to be the result of my own experience. I am not a university man, nor for the work in which I have engaged do I feel it to be a disadvantage. Oxford and Cambridge are institutions of the past. We need more of the spirit of today."

America Mr. Wells feels to be the true expression of the new phase. Not perhaps the America of today, but the America of the future. "I must revisit the United States," he said between puffs at his briar. "Even since my last trip conditions have changed beyond belief. New forces are at work. You have space and you are still young. You have hope."

He is an outdoors man, fond of motor and cricket and keenly interested in aviation, as is shown in his books. "The War in the Air," "The First Men In the Moon" and "The Sleeper Awakes" all center about the conquest of the air, while aviation is included in "The New Machiavelli," "Tono-Bungay" and "Marriage."

Writes of His Own Life.
Writing of his own life a few years ago, Mr. Wells said:

"The literary life is one of the modern forms of adventure. Success with a book, even a commercially modest success, as mine has been, means in the English speaking world not merely a moderate financial independence, but the utmost freedom of movement and intercourse.

"A poor man is lifted out of his narrow circumstances into familiar and unrestrained intercourse with a great variety of people. He sees the world. If his work excites interest he meets philosophers, scientific men, soldiers, artists, professional men, politicians of all sorts, the rich, the great, and he may make such use of them as he can. "He finds himself no longer reading in books and papers, but hearing and touching at first hand the big discussions that sway men, the initiatives that shape human affairs. And London is more than the capital of a kingdom; it is the center of a world empire and of worldwide enterprises.

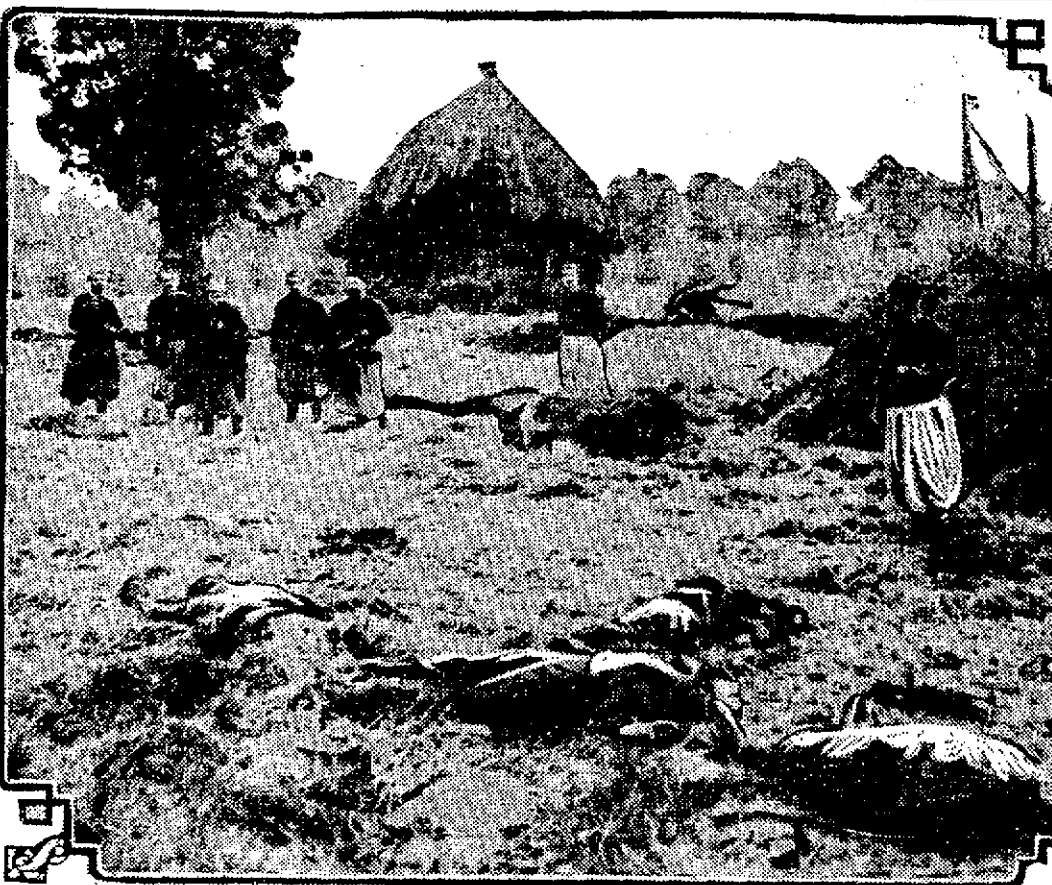

Intensely Interested In Life.
"To be a literary artist is to want to give one's impressions of the things about one. Life has interested me enormously and filled me with ideas and associations I want to present again. I have liked life and like it more and more.

"The days in the shop and the servants' hall, the straitened struggles of my early manhood, have stored me with vivid memories that illuminate and help me to appreciate all the wider vistas of my later social experiences. I have friends and intimates now at almost every social level, from that of a peer to that of a pauper, and I find my sympathies and curiosities stretching like a thin spider's web from top to bottom of the social tangle."

Place for All.
"Nothing," says Robert Herrick, "irritates the thinking woman more than to be told that woman's place is in the home. She knows it. It is the man's place also, and she knows that."

AFTER THE BATTLE OF THE MARNE: DEATH WINS BIG VICTORY

This photo was made on the Bary road that leads to Etrepilly, just after one of the fiercest engagements of the battle of the Marne. Here the French Zouaves engaged the Germans in a hand to hand encounter and the road was strewn with bodies of both sides. The haystack which miraculously escaped catching fire was an efficient shelter from which the preliminary shots were fired by some of the Zouaves, who are seen preparing to bury the dead Germans.

ALLIES WRECK BRIDGE; GERMAN OFFICERS GO TO THEIR DOOM

Pinned beneath the wreckage of this automobile were the bodies of a German captain and lieutenant bearing dispatches for the commanding officer of the Marne. So fast was the car going across the bridge at Trelfort, destroyed by the allies, that the German officers did not discover their peril until it was too late.

She Was Too Emphatic.
"Yes; the engagement is off."
"What came between your two loving hearts?" "I hardly know. I told her I was unworthy of her, and she agreed with me so heartily on the point that our courtship kind of languished after that."

GOOPS

By GELETT BURGESS

Maida Kerr

"How do you do?"
That is the way
To welcome friends
that call; and say,
"I'm glad to see you,

Don't be a goop,
like Maida Kerr,
Why, when addressed,
says not a word,
As if, in fact,
she hadn't heard.

Wisdom.
"Every man ought to save up enough to buy himself a good big farm," said the thrifty citizen. "Yes," replied Farmer Cornetson; "and then do something else with the money."

Repertes.
A woman witness, in the course of a long, rambling statement, remarked: "He said he was as good as me, and I said so was I. I told him he was no man, and he said neither was I."

Health Restored by Eckman's Alternative

Glandular trouble, very frequently diagnosed by physicians as "Tuberculosis in the glands," has been found to yield to Eckman's Alternative when other treatments did not bring relief. Eckman's Alternative is a medicine which, during the past fifteen years has brought about many recoveries even in a number of supposed hopeless cases. Read this—

227 Lauriston St., Phila., Pa.
"Gentlemen: In March, 1909, my doctor pronounced my case 'Tuberculosis in the glands,' and a number of operations in a hospital failed to benefit me. In the meantime a friend of mine advised Eckman's Alternative. The wounds in my neck were still open and in a frightful condition when I started to take it. After using two bottles I found I was improving, having gained weight, could eat and was able to sleep. I continued using it until I was well, which was in November, 1910. On November 31, 1910, I started to work, and since that time I have not lost one day's work through sickness. I highly recommend Eckman's Alternative to anyone who is suffering from gland trouble. (Address) JOSEPH H. WHITE."
Eckman's Alternative has been proven by many years' test to be more efficacious for several throat and lung Affections, Bronchitis, Brounchitis, Asthma, Stomach Colds, and in upbuilding the system.  Not alone in Chicago but all over the east and west prices have declined sharply this week. Omaha's top yesterday was $7.60 and Buffalo $5.00.
 The average price of hogs at Chicago was $7.59, against $7.68 Wednesday, $8.13 a week ago, $8.92 a month ago, $8.12 a year ago, $9.06 two years ago and $6.47 three years ago.

The Deciding Voice.
 In a business men's club in a western town there sprang up two factions, one which criticized the steward because he did not provide the members with good meals, and one which defended him hotly. The dispute got fiercer and fiercer. Half the club wanted to fire the steward at once. The other half said he was efficient. Then, without warning, the steward decided the momentous question. One day at lunch time a member of this club asked the waiter: "Where's the steward?" "He ain't here," replied the waiter. "He said he was going down the street to get something good to eat."—The Popular Magazine.

PETROGRAD QUIET

AS NATIONS WAR

Capital of Russian Empire Assumes New Attitude as Native Sons Fall in Strife.
 (Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

The Hague, Sept. 9.—The situation in Petrograd is treated extensively in a letter appearing in the Berliner Tageblatt of Sept. 23, which reads in part as follows:

"On the whole the government does its best to protect the life and property of the foreigners—even the German. It has in this the support of the military authorities. During the days of the mobilization it was different, of course. But now one sees everywhere posters warning against the molestation of foreigners, and which call upon those who may have been mistreated to make reports, promising severe punishment for the offenders. What is more, the posters are strictly kept, and every guilty of excesses against foreigners have been heavily punished.

In order to minimize the chances of trouble it was thought best that German firm names make place for inscriptions in Russian, and the Germans were asked to refrain as much as possible from speaking their language in public. But the best measure for the protection of the foreigners undoubtedly was the prohibition of the sale of strong alcoholic beverages. Petrograd today has the appearance of being a city of sober people. While formerly one could everywhere see the repulsive, beastly state of intoxication of the hooligan—the mob with whom nobody was safe—today the street scenes of the capital are more inviting.

"The many extra editions of the newspapers speak constantly of victories of the Russians and French over the Germans, and it is asserted that the former are already near Berlin. Foreign papers are rigorously excluded, and since even the men wounded are not permitted to come into contact with the public or see even their relatives, there is no difficulty keeping the Russian public under the impression that the Russians are really near Berlin.

"There are no more tourists and the hotels are empty. In the hotels, moreover, everything has become very dear. A bottle of beer, which formerly cost from 20 to 25 kopeks, now costs 40, while a glass costs 25 instead of 13. Food, on the other hand, has become cheaper. The war has absolutely put a stop to exports, and prices, therefore, have gone down. Ten fresh eggs, for instance, cost 30 kopeks, and the fat geese, which formerly cost 3 1/2 to 4 rubles, can now be had for 1.20 rubles. Coke can no longer be had at any price, the small supply on hand having been confiscated by the military. The navy is badly off for coal, its boilers being arranged for English coal and Russian coal, which is not even possible to get in sufficient quantities, cannot be used by the navy without serious injury to the boilers. Most factories lack raw material, especially iron. There is also a serious shortage in medicaments and bandages of all sorts, which formerly were imported from Germany.

"Since none of the court ever comes to Petrograd one sees but seldom members of the best society, who are mostly in mourning on account of the Russian elite troops having lost many officers in the fighting in East Prussia, the majority of whom belonged to the capital's best circles.

"Only the casualties in the commissioned personnel are published. Those who wish information regarding non-commissioned officers and privates are obliged to make inquiry at the ministry. This method has so far enabled the Russian government to keep the tremendous losses of the army from the multitude. Notwithstanding this, depression grows daily, due to the fear that with the rumored defeat of the North Army, Petrograd may become the objective of an attack by either land or water. The rumor that the Austrian army has not been totally annihilated as had been claimed, but is gaining force, as is also the report that the Russian troops opposing them have so far not been able to participate in the operations designed to crush Germany."

All in a Bunch.
 Mary, aged 6, was intently watching a very stout woman, a fellow passenger in a street car. The child whispered: "Do you know, grandmother, I think she was meant for twins and never was divided."

German dreadnoughts in battle formation; German dreadnought firing a broadside.

A study of the navies of the warring nations in Europe indicates that while Germany is powerful on the sea, she and Austria have nothing like the combined sea strength of England, Russia and France. Germany has not a single superdreadnought built and has only three building. England has thirteen superdreadnoughts in commission and seventeen building. Germany has seventeen dreadnoughts; Austria two; France two; Great Britain sixteen. Germany has thirty other battleships; Austria fourteen; Russia thirteen; France twenty-seven; Great Britain forty-eight. England and her allies have 62 armored cruisers; Germany and Austria 12. ## SHELL DESTRUCTION

PRAISED BY GERMAN

Imperial Army Officer Voices With Napoleon, "God With Side of Heaviest Artillery."

Berlin, Oct. 9.—Artillery is trump in this war, says a wounded German officer interviewed by the Tageblatt. He continues:

"Our German shells are wonders. In addition to their destructive effects, the moral effect of their detonation is plain to be observed. The enemy is not a little affected by the dull, uncanny noise. The showing of our field howitzers is a complete success. They are actually equal to the heaviest field pieces of the French, the Rimailho (15.5 centimeter) howitzers. The French shells are an effective projectile, except that they do not always explode.

"In our advances we have had opportunity to observe on the French dead and wounded the effect of our shells, and it was very great. At the beginning of the war the percussive point of our projectiles is said to have been laid too high, and it is interesting to note that we first learned this from letters captured from the French.

"It must be said that the French cannoniers shoot well. They keep a sharp watch, open fire as soon as they see dust rising, even at great distances, where they can reckon only on moral effect. They must also have excellent information at their disposal. Their ammunition supply is well looked after. A cessation of fire because of lack of ammunition almost never occurs. This is the more remarkable because of their system of firing, in which they seek out an area in which they assume the enemy to be present and simply deluge it with their fire.

"Our heavy artillery has become the terror of the enemy and the appearance of the growler (the 16.5 inch mortar) is always joyfully welcomed by our troops. Its effect is fearful. I have seen two massive walls of a house penetrated by it. The detonation breaks all the windows in the vicinity. Where it strikes, the enemy are thrown to the ground by the pressure. The bodies are terribly mangled and covered with a grayish blue dust. Although our heavy artillery has no protective shield, it has repeatedly taken part in battles with direct fire and played a decisive part.

"When our fire is effective the French simply abandon their guns. It is less effective one notices that the guns are pulled out of the line of fire, while the ammunition wagons are left standing. They often succeed in limbering up with extraordinary quickness and getting into another position further back. The French field pieces, both as regards effectiveness and the readiness with which it can be handled, must be considered good."

They Go Together.
 Whenever we see a man who wears a big, flashy diamond ring we expect to hear him say "them kind" and "has went."

THE INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY-SCHOOL LESSON.

Hotto for this week: "In this book is all the wisdom of the world." George Heinrich August Von Ewald, 1863-1875. (In conversation with Dean Stanley.)

Fourth Quarter. Lesson II.
Oct. 11, 1914. Mark 14:12-25.

THE LAST SUPPER. (THE STORY.)

Jesus tarried in the sweet seclusion of Bethany, but his disciples knew that he who had said, "Thus it becometh me to fulfill all righteousness," would not ignore the great feast. The question was not if it would eat, but where. Two disciples are commissioned to make the preparations. They are sent with sealed orders, no doubt, to keep the traitor off their track. None of the remaining ten could divine the place. A man doing a woman's work (carrying water) would be novel enough to serve as sign. Jesus told them to ask for a lowly place, only a hallway. As he spent his first night on earth with bursts of the staid, he will take an equally obscure place for his last night. The disciples are off at once on their errand. They find it as Jesus had said. The proprietor of the house gladly places at their disposal a spacious room. They shall have it in privacy. It is in the second story, which will lead to their seclusion. Its walls have been freshly whitened and its tile floor scoured.

The low, gayly-painted table is already in position, with the couches forming three sides of a hollow square. The banquet table, dishes, basins, and water-pots are all in place. The disciples hurry to make the necessary purchases: the wines and cakes of unleavened bread, the vinegar, salt, and bitter herbs. The disciples, apples and almonds to make the compost of reminder of the clay in the brickyards of Egypt; and most important of all, the four golden vessels. One of the three carried the lamb on his shoulders, the knife tied to his horns. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon, at the sound of the trumpet, with all similarly commissioned, they went into the inner court of the temple. At three blasts they, with thousands of others, struck the death-blow to their victim, while the priest caught the blood in a golden vessel and passed it to the high altar. As the disciples held the lamb upon a stick that rested upon their shoulders, it was quickly flayed. The parts devoted to God were separated, then, draping the victim in its own skin, they started for the house where they were to celebrate the feast. The carcass, trussed upon skewers of pomegranate in form of a cross, was baked in the oven. The ten approached the city, knowing well where he would find the waiting disciples and the upper room. They enter, and the Master greets the three first stars are shining now, and the silver trumpets signal the feast to begin. Once more the disciples scramble for the best places, but Jesus rebuked them in an acted mental task. Now the paschal banquet begins. The ritual is used, the rubrics observed. The cup is passed, and thanksgiving. Bitter herbs dipped in vinegar are eaten in remembrance of Egypt. The unleavened bread with a bit of roasted lamb upon it is taken by each. Another is passed. Then there is the customary hand-washing. Jesus as master of the feast discourses upon its significance. They sing the first part of the Hallel. Then the third and last cup goes from hand to hand, finally they sing the second part of the Hallel. At times through the feast Jesus gives intimations increasingly distinct of his betrayal and his betrayer, but his manner toward Judas does not change. He washed his feet and gave his portion with his own hand. But the devil was already in Judas' heart, and the thirty pieces in his scrip. An incalculable loss when the apostate left the apostles.

THE TEACHER'S LESSON.
All that now remained of the paschal was the blessing of praise which it always closes. The words were all expected. The innovation could not be noticed by those who had followed one and the same program annually since they were ten years old. Instead of lifting his hands in benediction, Jesus, taking a bit of bread, blessed it, and as he passed from one to another he broke it, giving each a morsel, saying, "Take, eat, this is my body." Then he filled a cup, and again giving thanks and passing it to another, he said, "This is my blood of the new covenant, which is shed for many for the remission of sins." Then followed his words of institution, "This do in remembrance of me." The anachronism of Leon ardo "da Vinci's justly famous fresco of the Last Supper is obvious. He represents Jesus and the twelve sitting in Oriental style at a modern table. They did not sit at all, but reclined. It was this reclining that made it natural for John to lay his head in Jesus' bosom, and for Peter and John to hold their whispered conversation without the traitor's observing them. Perhaps we emphasize disproportionately the sadness of the Last Supper. Jesus as host would not let the occasion wholly lose its festive character. It was a goodly scene that the well-trimmed lamps shone down upon. The fresh turbans of blue, crimson, and yellow, the animated faces, the table covered with damask and well-supplied, all made a study to delight a painter. The feast extended over several hours, and only the somber incidents are recorded. There must have been much joyous conversation as well. The presence of Judas was the one ugly spot in that feast of love. Jesus without openly criminalizing him before the company, plainly announced that one of the twelve would betray him. He did this for their sakes, that they might later know that he was perfectly aware of his impending fate, and not being taken by surprise, voluntarily submits to it. He said it for Judas' sake also. It was his last appeal to the traitor. He gave Judas the chief place at table, washed his feet, gave him his portion with his own hand, and thus let him know he read his wicked heart, and only when it was clearly of no avail he bade him do quickly his infamous deed.

NEXT STEP FOR OUR SOCIETY.

"And besides all this add to your faith virtue, to virtue knowledge, to knowledge temperance, to temperance patience, to patience godliness, to godliness brotherly kindness, to brotherly kindness charity." Life, whether individual or collective, to be healthful and effective, must be progressive, not static.

The latter spells unwholesomeness and inefficiency. St. Peter writes the prescription for a virtuous, happy and fruitful religious life, individual or collective. It is a process of addition, not of numbers, but of grace one to another. The worth of any society will be in direct proportion as the individual members diligently work the sum of addition.

Who Is Your Master?

By REV. J. H. RALSTON
Secretary of Correspondence Department
Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—No man can serve two masters.
—Matt. 6:24.

Experience proves that every man has some master. While the text intimates that a man may attempt to serve two masters, he can serve only one. Our thought must not be confined to choice between two masters only when there may be several. The point being that a man serves only one.

Mammon may mean self, the world, the flesh or the devil. We will confine our thought to three possible masters.

Self as Master.
Man, as a rule, thinks he is his own master. He says: "I am the captain of my soul." He recalls without hesitation the words of the poet:

"Man, know thyself, Presume not God to scan."

and he interprets these words to mean that a knowledge of God is not his first duty. In many cases he utterly ignores God and sees in himself possibilities of a perfect man, and strives to develop them by himself. A party of travelers in the Alps were starting out one morning to scale one of the highest peaks, and invited a young man to go with them, and on his declination, asked him if he did not intend to make the ascent. He replied: "Yes, I will make it, but I will make it by myself. I have a guide book, and have my own head." The party made the ascent and returned in safety. The next day the papers reported the finding of a dead body of a young man at the foot of a precipice with a guide book tightly clutched in his hand. Thus many imagine that they can go on without God.

Satan as Master.
The teaching of the word of God is very clear that there is an intelligent, powerful, malicious personality in the universe opposed to God, and he is called Satan, or the devil. He is the god of this age, and he is given great power, and seems to be lifted above mankind, to a position from which he exercises this great power. His power is seen in individual lives, and in masses of men. The diabolism that is found in certain companies of human beings is almost beyond belief. The plot against the Jews of Russia charged with the ritual murder of the boy Yushinsky, which, according to George Kennan involved the Russian government itself, can only be accounted for on the proposition that some satanic mind planned it all. Demon possession was clearly taught in the scriptures, and in modern times has been clearly proven in China and other parts of the world by most conservative and discriminating students. Of some men it can be truly said, they are devils incarnate. The devil does not always operate in the most debased and fiendish manner, or men would resist him and fly from him. Many whose lives are fairly admirable are yet in the mastery of the evil one, but do not know it. Did not Jesus say that certain men were the children of the devil? In the individual, the mastery of the devil is seen in his inability to control his appetite, his temper, and his actions.

God as Master.

But may not God be master? Jesus Christ, who was God, claimed to be master, saying: "One is your master, even Christ." While there are few, comparatively, who acknowledge God as master, there are those who may claim to parallel the 7000 in Israel who did not bow the knee of Baal. The disciple Thomas freely called Jesus Master, and the Holy Spirit coupled the idea of the saving power of Jesus Christ with his mastership in the use of the term Lord Jesus.

The mastership of God involves several things. First, definite, positive and purposeful surrender to God. When Saul of Tarsus by the gate of Damascus asked: "What shall I do, Lord?" he made a definite surrender. He acknowledged himself from that moment as the servant and very slave of God. Secondly, man will at once let God guide him. As God's guidance is most clearly given in his word, that word will be man's study all the days. Thirdly, his life will be one of complete obedience. There will be no further question as to whether the thing God commands is feasible or not. It is only as to whether it is a clear command. "His not to reason why, his but to do or die." This perfect surrender is not imbecility; it is a sane, sensible recognition that the leadership of God is better than his own. An illustration of this is seen in the career of such a man as Dwight L. Moody.

Yielding the mastery to God, secures supreme happiness. One of the master tricks of the devil is to make man believe that to serve himself is to secure happiness. The only fear of Dan Crawford, who for 22 years was in the long grass of Africa, was that he might possibly lose his supreme joy-in-God—but he never lost it.
